Background and Specification Report

Anthony Longland

30/11/2011

Contents

1 Introduction

The aim of this project is to simplify the process of claiming expenses. The current process for making expense claims is often cumbersome and time consuming. An American Express study showed that depending on business complexities, and practices and procedures in place, companies spend on average US$36.46 up to as high as US$75.91 to process a single expense report.[?]

1.1

References

References

[1] C. Dwyer, "Corporate Card and Expense Management Integration in the Lower Mid-Market Policy Standardization : The Bridge to Compliance," Tech. Rep. May, 2010.